Originality 20%	Extremely original plot. Your crime report is unique and will become a milestone in the seventh art.	There are not many crimes like yours out there. Your story is fairly original, and this type of plots is what novels, films and TV series need	Not the most original crime out there, but most ideas have already been taken so it is very difficult to come up with something totally new.	Maybe your team should have put more effort into finding an original topic for your crime. You can do better than this.	There are tons of stories like this one already. You are not providing anything new. Try harder!
Visuals Organization, text and images. 20%	A thoroughly organized police report that contains an outstanding display of text and photos that look like real police/medical documents.	Organized documents and an attractive combination of text and images. The story is easy to understand just following your documents.	Your organization is pretty straightforward. Maybe you should have included a few more images to make your documents even clearer.	Your report is not the most straightforward in the world, but it works. A bit less chaos would be appreciated, though.	If we pay attention to police films, chaos is part of their lives. However, their reports need to have some order to be able to find crucial information.
Contents Number and quality of documents 20%	Your dossier contains all the documents necessary for a crime investigation. The information you provide is scientifically accurate.	Your dossier contains most documents necessary for a crime investigation. The information included is more or less precise.	Interesting information and correct length. You would only need a little extra effort to turn your story into a masterpiece.	The information is more or less interesting, but your documents are very few or very short to actually understand your story.	The number of documents is too low or the information provided is too short to be considered fit for your case.
Science 20%	It is very clear that the story has been written by scientists. It contains a good number of accurate scientific elements and techniques.	A comprehensive set of scientific techniques is present in the story. Scientists generally write good stories.	Good balance between action and science. Considering the course is based on forensic techniques you might want to include a few more of them in your story.	You have focused more on the crime than on the scientific elements of your story. It would be clever to show your teacher you have learnt a lot in class, don't you think?	Your scientific contents are not relevant or original, either because they have been copied from somewhere or because they have been used a million times before.
English 20%	Perfect use of complex language structures and technical vocabulary with no errors.	Good use of mostly simple structures including technical vocabulary with few errors.	Average use of simple structures and technical vocabulary. Your texts contains some errors or language is a bit basic. You will need to improve on language complexity.	Your documents need deep revising. You should read each others' texts before posting them to prevent errors.	Many basic errors that could have been avoided using an automatic corrector. Not good enough.
